Magnetic Type-C Cable

SKU:A143

Description

The Magnetic Type-C Cable is a Type-C data cable with a magnetic connector, which not only makes device connection more convenient but also significantly reduces port wear and extends the lifespan of the device. The magnetic head can automatically detach when accidentally pulled, effectively protecting the device from damage. Additionally, the M5 design supports multi-device compatibility, making it suitable for various devices with a Type-C interface. This data cable is made from eco-friendly materials and complies with the RoHS environmental standard.
